Freedman-570 Ralph St.

AMERICAN BOOK COMPANY
100 WASHINGTON SQUARE
NEW YORK

BROOKLYN, N.Y.
FEB 23
9 30PM
1919
STA. D

U.S. POSTAGE
1 CENT

J. M. Freedman Atty
H & Hardman Building
Memphis, Tenn.

Feb. 23, 1919.

Sunday.

Precious Hank, Love —

Am feelingfully fine, have finished (almost) out dress and have started another. Maybe my back does not ache me! I mean sewing all day — never putting a foot outdoors.

I do miss your letters terribly. To-morrow night I get one. I suppose I shall find two for me. I shall write you a real long letter to-morrow night if I can possibly do so. I have sent very letters the past 2 nights. It was on Friday o'clock last night we retired. This morning Nell & I had been sewing and about 12 we decided to go to bed. When all of a sudden she discovered out of the blue missing from her ring. We searched every inch of the floor and no results and finally

She looked among the things she was sent and there found it. At 6.30 I was up and read by light to the very unique go[illegible] imposed sentence.

I [illegible] is very little the more that I can write as I am so tired I can hardly pick the pen.

So long, dear, I shall close with all my love, tender thoughts and all my begs it likes. Forgive the sign of the letter. I shall try to do better to-morrow. Guess I shall go to bed soon. So long, dear, here is your good night kiss, pleasant dreams, and God bless you, my honey bunch.

Everlasting

Your very tired wife